Dear Jim:- I forgot to give this to you Wednesday. You may have seen it in Aud. Drag recently.

Martin Is the Name

For a research project, I am compiling all the available information I can obtain on the purple martin. I have extended the project to cover both North and South America.

I need: first arrival dates in the spring, date when the majority of martins are back, first egg-laying dates, number of young birds surviving until fall, departure dates, number of years records kept and increase or decrease of martin population over the years.

J. C. FINLAY
Edmonton, Alberta, Canada

Davis and I went to look for the long-eared owl yesterday. Only found large flock of crows and 2 pellets.

Sincerely
D. S. Ken

The mild weather here that ushered in the New Year will linger thru the week, the Weather Bureau said. Lower temperatures aren't expected until the week-end.

Temperatures tomorrow thru Saturday will average four to eight degrees above the normal 44 high and 30 low.

Today's high was in the 50's, dropping into the middle 30's tonight, and rising into the upper 40's tomorrow. Yesterday's

NO SNOW

'66 Gets a Warm, Wet Start

1-3-66

The mild weather here that ushered in the New Year will linger thru the week, the Weather Bureau said. Lower temperatures aren't expected until the week-end.

Temperatures tomorrow thru Saturday will average four to eight degrees above the normal 44 high and 30 low.

Today's high was in the 50's, dropping into the middle 30's tonight, and rising into the upper 40's tomorrow. Yesterday's high was 48.

The rain over the week-end didn't quite add up to a half an inch. An additional inch is expected in the middle of the week and next week-end.

The Bureau doesn't see any snow in the immediate future. It called it highly unusual not to have had a significant snowfall here by this time of winter.

The western sections of the country were being buffeted, however, by snow storms, dust storms and heavy rain.
